Village Ready For Summer Celebrations

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

Residents of the Antioch area are in for one of the most active summers in recent history.

As most everyone knows by now, the Chamber of Commerce's RV, Boat, and Auto Show is only a week away. Held over Memorial Day weekend last year, the show drew over 10,000 people. Organizers are certain that the event this year will be an even bigger draw because it will not compete with people's holiday plans.

If the response of exhibitors is any indication, the organizers are right. This representing a wider spectrum of interest than the event did last year.

The show will kick off on Friday, June 13, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 10:30 a.m. The 14 exhibitors will showcase their wares throughout the weekend and the show will be interspersed with live entertainment on the mainstage. Food and refreshments will be available right on the site from the many vendors that have signed up.

Set to be held at the north parking lot of Antioch High School, volunteers will help direct visitors to the ample free parking spaces available.

On Friday, June 13, the Antioch Rotary is sponsoring a series of car and truck races at the Wilmet Speedway to raise money for the Rotary Scholarship Fund.

Come July 4th, the village is planning an old-time gala celebration. The fun will begin at 7 p.m. on July 3 at Williams Park with the Miss Antioch contest. Afterwards, entertainment will be provided by Ernie Levas.

The celebration will continue the next day, beginning with a parade from the high school to Williams Park scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Throughout the day there will be bands playing, the fire department will conduct water fights, a horseshoe tournament will be held, and a variety of activities will be run for the entertainment of the children.

The days events will culminate with a traditional fireworks display at Williams Park at dusk.

Just a week later, on July 13, the Chamber will conduct its annual Arts in the Park program at Williams Park. Although a bit more sedate than some of the other summer events, the Arts in the Park program has become a cultural highlight of the summer season in Antioch.

Summertime in Antioch will go out with a grand celebration of the Antioch News-Reporter's hundredth year of publication. Tentatively scheduled for Sunday, August 31, at Williams Park, this event is scheduled to be an old-time ice cream social and community picnic. Barbershop quartets and brass bands will provide entertainment while a variety of activities for both adults and children are planned.

Certainly, this will be one year when no one can say that there is nothing to do in town.

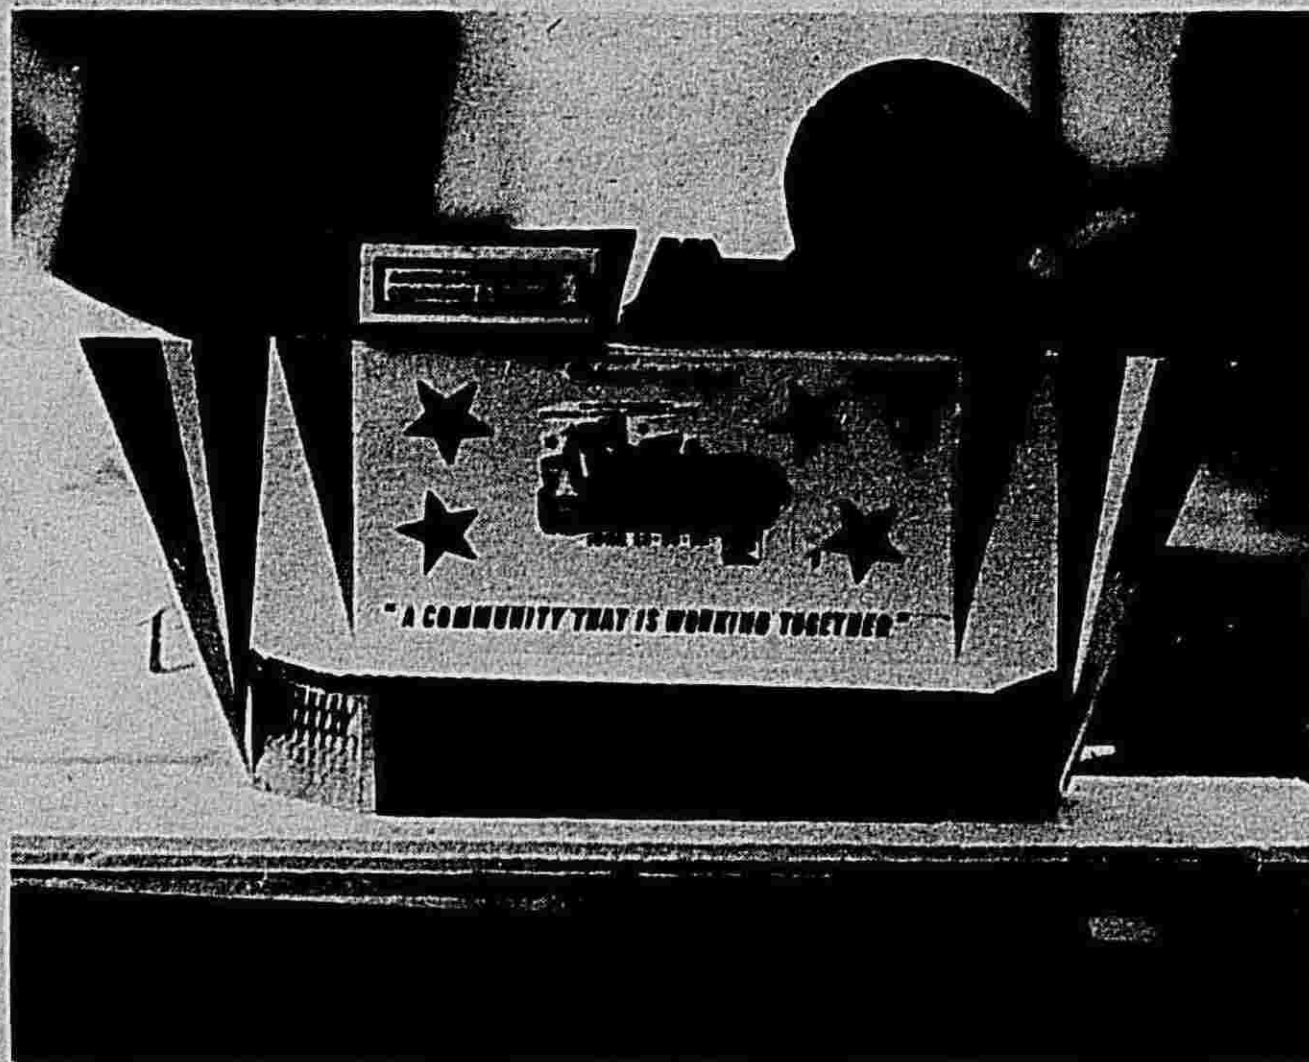

Rotary Sets Race For Scholarship

The Antioch Rotary Club will hold its fourth annual Scholarship Race on Friday, June 13 at the Wilmet Speedway beginning at 8 p.m. Wilmet speedway is located at the Kenosha County Fairgrounds in Wilmet.

Funds from the race are used to sponsor scholarships for Antioch Community High School students each year.

Among the races scheduled are a match between the Lions Club President and the Rotary Club President. There will also be truck races, stock car races, a powder puff derby, and many other events.

Tickets are $4 each. Children under 12 will be admitted free. Tickets can be purchased at the State Bank of Antioch, First National Bank of Antioch, Bank of Waukegan-Antioch Facility, or from any Rotary member.

The Stage Is Set...

...for a grand old time at the Antioch Chamber of Commerce's second annual RV, Boat, and Auto Show to be held in the high school parking lot during the weekend of June 13-15. The Chamber built a miniature mock-up of the mainstage they will have for the various performances during the weekend.

Antioch Senior Baseball League Begins Season

The Antioch Senior Baseball League began its season on May 27. According to league Vice-President Glenn Tointon, a whole new approach has been taken this year.

"We started from scratch and rebuilt the program from the ground up," Tointon said. "The bases were shortened for the younger 13-year-olds entering the program, a consecutive batting order was introduced, and each player will play a minimum of three innings per game."

League officials are hoping that these rule changes will generate new interest in the senior baseball program. Three Antioch teams have entered the competition this year. They include: Hahn's Jewelers, managed by Don O'Connor; The Advertiser, managed by Mike Wells; and the Vault, managed by Wayne Rey.

The addition of three Fox Lake area teams to the league will provide stronger competition this year. Each team will play a 15-game schedule, culminating in a championship tournament at the end of the regular season.

Tointon has also organized a Colt team comprised of 15 and 16 year olds that will play teams from neighboring communities such as Libertyville, Grayslake, and Waukegan. The Colt team will be managed by Mike Mitchell.

Bucar To Head National Optometric Congress

Albert A. Bucar, O.D., of Antioch, will serve as speaker of the house at the annual Congress of the American Optometric Assn., June 23-26, in San Diego.

Several thousand optometrists, their families and guests from throughout the U.S. and other countries are expected to attend the business and education sessions and social functions of the annual optometric meeting.

Bucar is immediate past president of the 25,000 member American Optometric Assn. He has served on its board of trustees for eight years and held the offices of vice president and secretary-treasurer. This past year, he was chairman of the association's judicial council and a liaison to its insurance committee and low vision section.

As speaker of the house, Bucar will preside at all meetings of the association's house of delegates, which is its policy-making body.

Name Antioch Man Head Of Wisconsin Airport Group

Ed Simpson, a resident of Laguna subdivision, east of Antioch, was elected to serve as president of the Wisconsin Airport Management Assn. (WAMA), at the Wisconsin Aviation Conference in Appleton.

Simpson and his wife, Audrey, operate the Camp Lake Airport. Simpson has served on the Board of Directors of WAMA for the last five years, holding the offices of secretary and vice-president before being elected president.

WAMA was formed in 1969 to promote airports and aviation in the state. The association works to promote and encourage the public's understanding of the value of aviation and airports. WAMA's two hundred plus membership consists of representation from airports statewide — large and small, public and private.

The Simpsons have operated Camp Lake Airport since acquiring it in 1977. Both have been active in aviation affairs in Illinois and Wisconsin since then. Camp Lake Airport is one of 51 privately owned/public use airports in Wisconsin.

Residents Think Statement Stinks

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

Residents of the upper Fox River area are angry at what appears to be a stunning reversal of position by Abbott Laboratories regarding sludge dumping at Hillview Farms in Richmond.

In order to deliver sludge, both Abbott and Hillview must have valid permits. Both were denied permits earlier this spring and are in the process of appeal. Up until the formal appeal was made public, Abbott spokesmen had maintained that the company was simply trying to abide by its contract with Hillview Farms.

There are three areas in which the position Abbott has taken in its appeal, dated April 25, 1986, differs from former statements made by Abbott spokesmen.

1) On page six of the appeal, Abbott states that, "IEPA's denial of Abbott's permit application could cause the shutdown of Abbott's operation at its North Chicago facility." Lakeland Newspapers obtained a copy of a private letter to Arnold May, owner of Hillview, from William Robertson, manager of corporate environmental services for Abbott, dated February 21, 1986. That letter explains to May exactly how and where Abbott can dispose of its sludge if it is denied a permit in the appeal. A key sentence states that, "Having the above permits now in hand, Abbott has contingency disposal options which would allow it to continue its manufacturing operations in the event of an interruption of service at Hillview, albeit at a much higher cost."

Abbott media spokesman Charles Weber, when confronted with this apparent contradiction, said that on the advice of Abbott attorneys, the official position is what is contained in the appeal.

Richmond attorney Don Stinespring, who has served as legal counsel for the concerned citizens group which is fighting the application, said, "I have said all along that Abbott is not so concerned about the environment as they are about keeping their costs down. They can't say on the one hand that they do have adequate alternate plans and then say that they do not in the appeal. What happened to all the alternate sites they listed just two months ago?"

2) On page 4 of the appeal, Abbott contends that the IEPA's record does not show that odors from Hillview Farms are at unacceptable levels or that Abbott sludge gives off unacceptable odors.

In a previous statement by Dale Johnson, Abbott Director of Civic Affairs, the company conceded that their sludge was odorous, but that the problem was due to storage procedures at Hillview. The company's latest position flies in the face of

Agency Toughens Up On Boat Violators

The Chain O'Lakes - Fox River Water Management Agency has started getting tough with boaters who have not purchased a user tag.

As of June 1, Sheriff's patrol boats stopped issuing warning tickets and started giving out the real thing.

According to Ann Dohnke, agency secretary, many boaters had been ignoring the requirement for a user tag. "We are getting into a problem with people who have bought their tag complaining," Dohnke said. "They want to know why we are not enforcing the rule. Some have asked why they should bother paying if it is not going to be enforced."

Agency Chairman John Soffietti had said earlier that members wanted to give boaters a little time to adjust to the new situation. Now that period of voluntary compliance is over.

Boaters will find that it is much cheaper to simply buy the tags before going out on the Chain O' Lakes. Any one who is stopped will have to post a cash bond and may have to appear in court.

Duchossois Picks Lake County For Track Site

by STEVE PETERSON

Old Mill Creek may never be the same.

The sleepy village of 97 people may become home to a $1.3 billion race track complex.

Arlington Park owner Richard Duchossois announced at a series of press conferences June 2 that 1,700 acres of land in Newport Twp. will host the track.

Area residents, used to a peaceful lifestyle, had mixed reactions to the proposed neighbor.

"It's a terrible idea. If I had lived here one day I'd think it was terrible," Mary Schulte said.

"I think it's a stupendous idea," Gladis Harth said. "I think it will be a boost to the area with new homes. It might be busier, but it will help Lake County in a big way."

Besides the track complex, the area will include two golf courses, equestrian facilities, office-hotel park, specialty retail shops and single-family homes.

Old Mill Creek President Emery Allison said his village welcomes the development.

"We welcome a race track in Old Mill Creek," he said.

He said some people are in favor of the development while others oppose it.

Old Mill Creek, which must act on the park's zoning, has no municipal services.

"That can be taken care of," Allison said.

Bob Neal, Newport Twp. Supervisor, stressed that local interests will not be ignored.

"We've been doing a lot of talking over the last couple of months. It has taken a lot of cooperation between the state legislature and the local people. I the one thing I would like to emphasize is the local people who have lived here and work here all their lives will not be forgotten," Neal said.

The deal between Duchossois and the state hinges on a tax break package to be worked out in Springfield over the next four weeks.

State Representative Robert Churchill (R-62) said he sees no problem with the tax package passing the House.

Neal said that Lake County's prime location put it over the top compared to Duchossois' other options—rebuilding at Arlington Heights or moving the track to Wisconsin.

"We're half-way between Chicago and Milwaukee in a growing corridor," Neal said.

Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton said the entire area would benefit from the race track.

"I think it will be good for everybody. It will help all the economy with sales tax and tourism revenue. We have quite a bit of building going up already on Rte. 132 and the expressway," Welton said.

The land, once owned by Tempel Smith, is boarded by Ill. Highway 173 on the north, Kelly Rd. on the south, Hunt Club Rd. on the east and Crawford Rd. on the west.

"From what everything I've heard, it will be a boom to the area. It's a good thing for the county," Warren Twp. Supervisor Bob Depke said.

State Senator Adeline Geo-

Karis (R-31) said she is "delighted" Arlington Park, whose new facility is yet to be named, is coming to the county.

"I'm just delighted. It will bring a lot of jobs to Lake County," she said.

Wauconda Mayor To Serve

Wauconda Mayor Kenneth McGill has been appointed treasurer of the Lake County Municipal League.

McGill, who previously served as a director on the municipal league, identified the issue of solid waste disposal as one of the league's current goals to work for.

"I would say finding a solution to the solid waste problem is probably one of the main issues right now," he said. "It's something everyone is concerned about."

The league, he said, is "basically the mayors and trustees meeting to iron out issues between the communities."

Stepping down as president of the municipal is Grayslake Mayor Edwin Schroeder, who will be Antioch Mayor Ray Toff.

Recall Brave Flyers At Midway 44 Yrs. Ago

by JOHN STEINKE

The Battle of Midway, fought June 4-6, 1942, was the turning point against the Japanese during World War II. The Japanese lost four aircraft carriers and their fleet strength was reduced to parity with the American naval forces that had survived Pearl Harbor. In all, five aircraft carriers, 14 other ships and 368 planes were lost, by both sides, at Midway.

On June 4, 1942, the 30 men of Torpedo Squadron Eight were aboard the carrier Hornet in the Pacific. They were awaiting word of a Japanese naval flotilla approaching Midway Island. In the morning enemy planes attacked the island, and Japanese ships were sighted within striking distance. The pilots and gunners of Torpedo Eight took off in their Douglas Destroyers, each plane with a torpedo attached to its belly.

The Hornet's torpedo-bombers, under Lt. Cmdr. John C. Waldron, sighted the Japanese fleet. The night before the attack, Waldron had corresponded to his wife: "If I do not come back - well you and the little girls can know that this squadron struck for the highest objective in naval warfare - 'To Sink the Enemy.'" In a message to his squadron, he stated: "If there is only one plane left to make a final run in, I want that man to go in and get a hit."

Utterly alone, the planes of Torpedo Squadron Eight pressed on to the attack. Skimming low over the water, Waldron led his squadron on. Puffs of smoke from anti-aircraft shells burst in front of their eyes. The sky suddenly filled with Japanese Zero fighters here, there, everywhere. A torpedo plane dropped and smashed into the sea, breaking into bits on impact. Then another. And another. Soon, over half the squadron had been shot down.

Still Waldron's plane bore in. As the surviving American aircraft neared a Japanese carrier, they were confronted by a deadly wall of enemy fire. Waldron's left tank erupted into flames. Ensign George "Tex" Gay, who was flying at the end of the formation, saw Waldron stand up and try to get out of the cockpit as the burning plane crashed into the sea. That left Gay and two other torpedo planes to press the attack. There were two more explosions, and only Gay's plane remained.

He recalled Waldron's instructions for the last plane "to go in and get a hit." His rear gunner, Bob Huntington, said, "They got me." Gay turned around and saw Huntington's head limp against the cockpit. A bullet dug into Gay's right arm. He released his torpedo against the Japanese carrier. But like the torpedoes from all the other planes, this one also missed and settled harmlessly beyond the carrier. As Gay started a turning climb, his plane was riddled by zeroes.

His Devastator pancaked into the ocean, and he climbed out of the sinking aircraft. Hiding under a seat cushion, he escaped the notice of the Japanese. As the sole survivor of Torpedo Squadron Eight, Gay was the only person to be a front-row witness of the decisive Pacific battle of World War II. Later, Gay was rescued by an American airplane.

Steinke On Politics

Within minutes, torpedo planes from the Enterprise and Yorktown also found the Japanese fleet. Fourteen Douglas Devastators from the first carrier attacked without fighter escort. Ten were shot down; four managed to launch their missiles. Then the 12 torpedo planes from the Yorktown appeared. Their six escorting fighters were destroyed by Japanese interceptors, but five torpedoes were released. Out of 41 torpedo planes, only a handful had managed to launch their torpedoes, and not a hit had been made on the Japanese force. Thirty-six of the attacking planes had been shot down.

But the bravery of the American pilots and the sacrifice of the torpedo-bombers had not been in vain, nevertheless. Their attacks forced the carriers into so much maneuvering that they could not launch their planes. In addition, the Japanese fighters had been drawn down to the surface by the torpedo attacks. Only three minutes after the last of the torpedo planes had been beaten off, 37 dive-bombers from the Enterprise and Yorktown, carrying 500 and 1,000 pound bombs, went into their dives. As a result, the "Hell-Divers" were able to set the Japanese carriers Akagi, Kaga, and Soryu fatally ablaze. Japanese aggression in the Pacific had been stopped.

The next time you're driving a Japanese car, why don't you remember the heroes of Torpedo Squadron Eight?

Sheriff Nominee To Combat Hunger

Sander P. Stagman says he will create a special division to combat hunger if he is elected sheriff of Lake County in the November general election.

Stagman, Democratic nominee, pledged to eliminate hunger within five years in the county through creation of the Community Activist Division.

Stagman linked hunger problems with crime. "No one should have to steal to feed him or herself or his or her family," the Highland Park resident declared.

The Community Activist Division (CAD), composed of sworn officers trained in community work, will work with all community base organizations. The sheriff's office through CAD will give them "what ever they need" to fulfill their goals and objectives. The Clergy Corps, a division of CAD, will be composed of rabbis' priests and ministers working together to mobilize their congregations to find and help people before the crime is committed.

Finding the hungry and homeless will be a priority. This is just one program of the Stagman for Sheriff Crime Prevention Administration.

Business Plans Comeback

New owners of a boat business in Gurnee have announced plans to change what was a sailboat operation into a complete power boat store, featuring power boats from 17 to 35 feet.

The store will again be known as "The Boat Show," which was the original name for the operation when it was built in 1965.

New owner and manager, Bob Byard, states, "We will feature a complete range of inboard-outboard power boats, including family runabouts, Lake Michigan sportfishermen, and larger cruisers once again."

The operation will also include a complete "service center."

"We are pleased and proud to be able to once again bring a beautiful full line boat retail operation to Gurnee. Northeastern Illinois is now known as the center of boating activity in the entire Midwest. We plan to have our new-old Gurnee operation, "The Boat Show," in the forefront of these boating activities for the next decade," Byard said.

The grand opening of the two-acre complex is planned for sometime within the next two weeks.

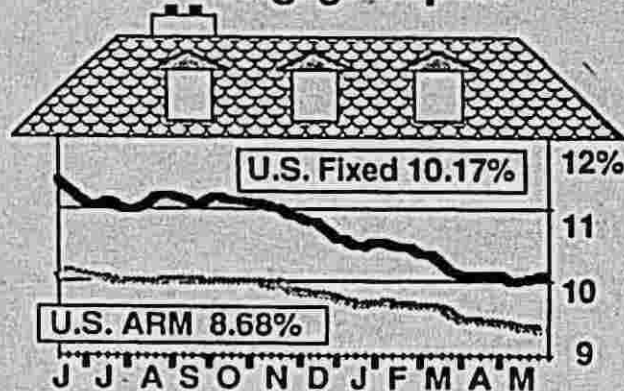

Kratohwil Qualifies

Dennis F. Kratohwil, CLU, ChFC, of Gurnee, has qualified for life and qualifying membership status in the prestigious Million Dollar Round Table (MDRT).

Only three percent of the world's life insurance agents qualify for the MDRT each year through high-level client service and production. Kratohwil, who represents Northwestern Mutual and other major insurers, is currently president of the Lake County Life Underwriters Assn.

"The Million Dollar Round Table" is an independent association of more than 21,000 life insurance agents, each of whom has met strict and ethical production requirements in order to qualify. Recognized internationally as the standard of life insurance sales performance, the MDRT's members represent more than 44 nations and territories, and some 450 life insurance companies.

Taxpayers May Feel Reform Package Sting

For the average American, Uncle Sam's tax reform package may mean simplified tax brackets, but in the long run proposed changes could take a bigger bite out of John Q. Public's wallet.

Currently, there are 15 separate tax brackets ranging from 11 percent to 50 percent. If the plan recently approved by the Senate Finance Committee becomes law, only two brackets - 15 percent and 27 percent - will exist.

If the plan goes into effect as scheduled in 1987, it would be "considerably less generous to individuals," said accountant Sherwin Gilbert, tax partner with the Chicago-based firm of Seidman & Seidman/BDO.

However, there are some potential victories for the little guy. First, the new proposals call for the taxpayer's personal exemption to be increased to $2,000 from the current $1,080 and indexed to inflation, which means it could go higher.

And, homeowners who are over 55 years of age will keep the one-time capital gains exclusion that will shelter up to $125,000 in profit on the sale of a qualified principal residence, including gains accumulated from prior home sales.

"For those under 55, gains from the sale of a house would still be protected if they are invested in a new primary residence within two years of the sale of the house," said Dave Phillips, tax expert with Laventhol & Horwath, a national accounting firm.

However, with the new two-bracket system, most other current tax write-offs would be eliminated.

Here's how income from a primary residence would be taxed under the Senate's proposed 27 percent tax bracket:

Let's suppose a couple had a windfall capital gain of $100,000 on the sale of stock.

Assuming the couple has two children and a combined annual taxable income (after deductions and exemptions) of $45,320, their taxable income would be $145,320 for the year. With the new tax rate of 27 percent, they would owe $38,696 in federal income taxes.

However, under current tax law, the first 60 percent - or $60,000 - of long-term capital gains from the stock sale profit would be excluded from ordinary income.

So the couple's taxable income for the year would be $85,320 ($100,000 in profit from the stock and $45,320 in other income). According to 1986 tax rate schedules, the couple would be in the 42 percent tax bracket. Their income tax liability under current rules would be about $24,000, or $14,696 less than under tax reform.

Several new proposals would take a bite out of the average taxpayer's wallet:

-IRAs ELIMINATED. You may find it much more difficult to fund your retirement because of the proposed elimination of the Individual Retirement Account deduction.

Investment specialist Robert A. Judleson, first vice-chairman of Skokie-based The Balcor Co., called the proposed elimination of IRA benefits "bewildering."

Judleson said IRAs are one of the most "socially constructive and economically beneficial" tax advantages ever given the public.

If IRAs are dropped, "large pools of money which flow into banks and are used for consumer and business loans would be eliminated, causing a loss of capital for the economy," Gilbert said.

-401(K) CUTBACKS. Allowable contributions to 401(K) salary reduction retirement accounts would be limited to $7,000, compared with the $30,000 ceiling now in effect.

-LIMITED INTEREST DEDUCTIONS. Credit card and consumer loan interest deductions would be limited to $1,000, or $2,000 for those filing jointly, and the sales tax deduction would be eliminated.

The result is that the purchase of a car, boat or major appliance would become much more expensive, particularly if you buy and finance the item with borrowed money.

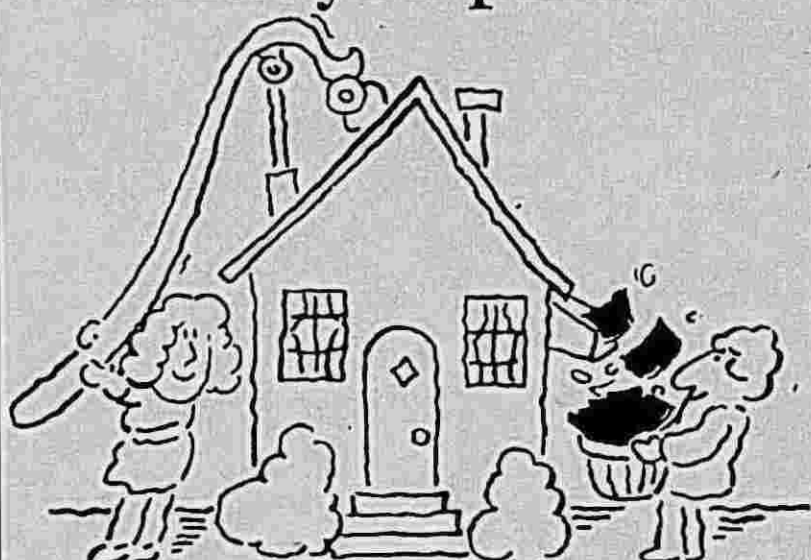

-HIGHER RENTS. Apartment renters will feel the pinch of higher rents because elimination of accelerated depreciation on real estate would deal a severe blow to new apartment construction.

"The elderly and other people on fixed income would be especially hard hit by the tremendous upward pressure on rents that would result," Judleson said.

-CAPITAL GAINS. Profits from the sale of investment real estate, stocks and other investments held more than six months would be taxed as ordinary income, the same as if it were W-2 or 1099 type income.

Current law taxes only 40 percent of a long-term capital gain, meaning a person in the top (50 percent) tax bracket pays only 20 percent on a long-term profit.

CLC Begins Search For New President

A search for a new president of the College of Lake County (CLC) is on, due to the resignation of John Hunter, who has held that position for the last eight years.

The first meeting of the CLC Board concerning this issue will be held Monday, June 9.

Hunter will leave Aug. 31, and according to former chairman, Richard Anderson, the board hopes to have a replacement by then, or at least by Nov. 1.

Anderson said an outside consultant firm would most likely be employed to assist in hiring the new president. He expects over 200 applicants for the position.

Hunter came to the Grayslake Community College from his native state of New York where he was dean of the college and professor of history at Niagara Community College.

He is the second president of the CLC which was founded in 1967. During his eight years at CLC, he has presided over facilities expansion, the implementation of technical and liberal arts adaption to curriculum, changes in admission policies, and the development of contractual educational programs.

"The past eight years have been an exciting time in the life of the college and for me and my family," said Dr. Hunter. "We have enjoyed Lake County immensely and shall take with us many fond memories and friendships. The college has developed strongly in these years and has a very bright future."

Facilities expansion has been part of Hunter's direction while at CLC. On the Grayslake campus, a three-story learning resources center has been added to the main building housing the college's library, audio-visual center, art gallery, and testing center. A physical education center has also been constructed during Hunter's term as president. An 80,000 square foot science and student services building will be completed in the fall of 1986.

College-credit, adult basic education, and continuing education classes are now offered off-campus in downtown Waukegan at the Lakeshore Campus. Hunter's commitment to community-based education and the open campus concept resulted the development of the Waukegan campus, a storefront facility in Highland Park, and expansion of classes at local high school, shopping centers, and on-site for local business and industry.

An automated industrial center was introduced to keep the college's career-training programs up with industrial advances. Many business functions of the college have also been computerized over past eight years including admissions, financial aid, and business services.

Required assessment of student skills for admission to many college-credit courses was introduced and implemented during the past few years. This system is designed to maintain the integrity of academic standards and better ensure student success through proper student placement.

The CLC board of trustees accepted Hunter's resignation at the May 27 meeting. Board President Millicent Berliant expressed bittersweet feelings about the move.

"It will be a loss to the college," Berliant said. "But of course the whole board wishes him well. He is leaving CLC in such excellent condition in every way. Academically, we have received such wonderful reviews from North Central Accreditation, and our facilities continue to expand. Our leadership at CLC is outstanding, and the credit for much of that goes to John Hunter."

One of the most innovative programs at CLC was the introduction of a $18 million contract with the Great Lakes Naval Training Center. Through this agreement with the Navy, CLC provides administrative and educational services for military personnel at Great Lakes.

Hunter will leave CLC, the two-year community college with a student population of 11,000, to serve as president of Alfred State College in Alfred, New York. Alfred State College is part of the New York State University System. A residential polytechnic college, it serves only full-time residential students and has a strong emphasis on technical programs.

Fungus Responsible For Yellow Bass Kill

A fungus, described as a cottony growth on the skin, has killed an undetermined number of yellow bass in the Chain O'Lakes and the Fox River in McHenry and Kane counties since early April, according to Jim Langbein, the regional fish supervisor for the Dept. of Conservation.

The fungus presents no danger to humans, and the fish can be eaten.

Langbein attributes the disease outbreak to stress brought about by overpopulation and related factors. Fluctuating water temperatures, including a record high and low this year, were targeted as possible stress contributors.

"The die-off is Mother Nature's way of attempting to bring the yellow bass into balance with their environment," Langbein said.

"There is no treatment for the disease when it occurs within the natural habitat of the species." The die-off is not considered a major fish kill.

Yellow bass constituted 56 percent of the fish collected in the Fox Chain during a recent DOC population sampling, Langbein said. The fungus attacking the fish was described by the supervisor as dirty or reddish in color, and belonging to the genus, Saprolegnia.

Private Industry Council Launches Referral Service

The Private Industry Council's Foundation has launched a referral service, Summer Jobs '86, for employers looking for young summer workers.

The majority of the job seekers are high school students who want to be gainfully employed during their school vacation.

William M. Behrens, coordinator for this new personnel service, encourages employers to call the Private Industry Council's Foundation office, describe the work needing to be done at their place of business and when the worker must be available.

One or more job seekers from the Foundation's pool of workers will be sent out for an interview, Behrens explains.

"Most young people have incredible energy and a keen desire to learn new things," Behrens notes. He continues, "They are inquisitive, aware and take great pride in the completion of a task."

Behrens, who is a retired Abbott Laboratories executive, has volunteered to assist the Foundation with the placement of these young workers. He is seeking job locations for full and part time workers in the areas of Zion, Waukegan, Gurnee and North Chicago.

To reach Behrens or Julie VerHagen, who is working with him, call Summer Jobs '86 at (312) 249-2200, ext. 51.

To DoStarkey

The Kirk Players close out their 20th season Friday and Saturday, June 13 and 14, with a comedy by Jack Starkey and Mel Buttorff entitled, "And Then I Wrote." Starkey's plays are well-known by Player audiences for the wacky plot (twists and side-splitting humor).

Director John Lynn has put together an all star cast consisting of many of the most popular players, a brand new player, Lisa Chrysler, and a delightful guest performer, Jerilyn Kjellberg.

Hill Carter, Mundelein, the Players technical director, is Bronian Pendrick, a down-on-his-luck New York producer in desperate need of a hit. He thinks he has found it in Andrew Kimmer's (Tom Schrimpf, Mundelein) very first play. It only needs "a few small changes."

Bronian is supported with an able, though cynical staff, played by Kathy Russ, Mundelein, and Bob Thomas, Barrington. Even though the play has not been quite "nailed down" Bronian has cast the lovely actress, Alison Blair (Phyllis Carter, Mundelein) and Charles Carpenter (Floyd Baker, Vernon Hills).

The script is in rewrite, the cast doesn't know who they play, and the backers may be put off by the dastardly deeds of a newspaper columnist who is blackmailing Bronian into marriage. Adding the arrival of Andrew's Peoria boss, an undertaker, one gets a whole lot of fun and laughs. Come see "And Then I Wrote," at 8 p.m. at Mundelein High School.

The play is sponsored by the Military Order of the Cootie Ho-Tai Pup Tent 67. For tickets or information call (312) 566-6594.

In Rehearsal

Hill Carter and Jerilyn Kjellberg rehearse a scene for the Kirk Players' new Jack Starkey production.

Tell Winners

Listed below are the winners that were selected in a random drawing of the 14,000 entries submitted during the White House exhibition from May 9-18.

They will tour the White House in Washington D.C. with arrangements being made by their congressman.

Second place winner Andrea Townsend, Schaumburg won Play-Pak combination for a family of four which is overnight lodgings and the current play, courtesy of Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort.

Third winner, Mrs. Anita Johnson, Mundelein won the overnight stay at the Gurnee Holiday Inn, breakfast at the famous Zackery's Restaurant and tickets to Six Flags Great American for a family of four.

Sludge Appeal

testimony given at the permit hearing by citizens complaining of odors and by the McHenry County Health Dept.

Dr. J.V. Johnson of the McHenry County Health Dept. testified that when sludge contains more than 58 per cent volatile solids, the odor from it is uncontrollable. The most recent analysis of Abbott sludge at Hillview (taken in 1984) revealed that it contains 83 per cent volatile solids, well over the limit at which odors become uncontrollable.

3) On page two of the appeal, Abbott says that Hillview injects sludge 12 to 20 inches beneath the ground. When the company was conceding that there was an odor from its sludge, it suggested that storage problems were to blame for the odor problem at Hillview.

The McHenry County Health Dept. has on file pictures of sludge oozing up between the furrows at Hillview on April 19, 1986. The pictures were taken by owners of neighboring land and were verified by a personal visit from health department officials.

Abbott spokesman Charles Weber said that, at this point, Abbott's official position is what is stated in the appeal and could comment no further.

Stinespring noted with irony that Abbott is a health care company which does not appear to care much about the health of residents of the upper Fox River area.

Hike Phone Bills

General Telephone's customers will be charged another dollar per month beginning June 1, according to Jim Blanchard, state vice president-general manager.

Blanchard said the charge is to cover the local telephone company's cost of providing connections to the long distance network for the customer. "It's the second step in a move to place the cost of providing telephone service where the cost actually is," he added.

The common access line charge, CALC, was set by the Federal Communications Commission, and will be included on customer billing statements. An insert further explaining the purpose of the charge also will be included.

"Traditionally, customers only paid part of the connection costs with long distance customers subsidizing the rest," remarked Blanchard. "CALC will more fairly apply the costs of providing access service to actual users of it," he concluded.

'South Pacific' Family Affair

Stage Review

by GLORIA DAVIS

PM&L Theater in Antioch is doing a revival of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific" to capacity crowds.

This version seems to be a faster and less cluttered version of the one the community theater did 20-some-odd years ago.

There are miles and miles of Miles wherever one looks in the cast listing, with Jane Miles bouncing through the role of nurse Nellie Forbush with gusto, husband Randy Miles dominating the stage as Luther Billis and daughter Audra lending her sweet voice to the role of Ngana, the daughter of Emile de Becque.

Jane Miles is an exuberant Nellie whose pert prettiness is as easy on the eyes as her lovely voice is on the ears.

Randy's Billis is tougher, more of a gang leader and less the sneaky coniver "South Pacific" addicts may be used to.

His size alone (with lots of added shtick) makes the "Honeybun" number a hilarious show stopper.

Ever dependable Lou Jones comes up with an authentic French accent as de Becque, although this reviewer sensed some underplaying here.

Peter Thelen is a winsome "honsome lutellant", with a good voice and some terpsichorean talent to boot. He and his Liat, Kerriann Nauseda, make an engaging couple.

The part of Bloody Mary has always been a plumb-one and Pat Hill steals the show by playing her to the hilt. Her rendition of "Bali Hai" is spine chilling.

Any list of scene stealers has to include the rest of the sailors who do a fine job on the choral numbers, filling the theater with their strong voices.

Hank Apostol's island scenery is an outstanding backdrop for a good musical that should keep area audiences humming the memorable Rodgers and Hammerstein tunes throughout the summer.

The show plays for the next three weekends at the little theater on Main St. in Antioch.

Search Is On For Fair Talent

The Lake County Fair is looking for talented individuals or groups to compete for monetary awards. Any Lake County resident may enter the contest but can not participate in more than one act.

Acts are limited to five minutes or less and are judged on ability, audience contact, costume and appearance, entertainment value and originality.

Home Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Lake County and Grayslake National Bank will be sponsoring this year's contest.

The talent contest is divided into three categories based on the age of the contestant:

JUNIOR DIVISION is open to contestants who are 14 years of age or under on Nov. 20.

SENIOR DIVISION is open to contestants who are 15 years of age and under 21 years of age on Nov. 30.

ADULT DIVISION is open to contestants who are 21 or over on Nov. 30.

Winners in the Junior and Senior Divisions will represent Lake County in the state competition in Springfield in January 1987.

A preliminary contest will be held on Sunday, July 20 at the fairgrounds. The top eight winners in each division will compete in the finals; each division will compete on a different evening during the fair on the WKRS CenterStage: Junior Division—Thursday, July 24, 8 p.m.; Senior Division—Friday, July 25, 8 p.m.; and Adult Division—Saturday, July 26, 8 p.m.

Audition applications and rules may be obtained by calling John Lynn at (312) 566-6594 or Walter Krumrey at the fair office (312) 223-2204.

Greasepaint To Close

June 1 marked the sixth year of Greasepaint and Spotlights classes in training students in the performing arts. It is also the end of this studio's functioning.

March 1 of this year the studio was informed by Con-dell Memorial Hospital—Medical Center Properties, Inc. owners of the building which houses the Libertyville Studio that their lease would not be renewed.

The hospital was unwilling to negotiate a new lease. Since that time the studio has looked for comparable space within the rent capabilities of its budget.

Unfortunately equal sized spaces of 2,300 square feet were double the studios current rent. Smaller spaces were considered but were not adaptable to Greasepaint's curriculum.

The studio will hold a sale of all its items on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday June 9, 10 and 11 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Items for sale include four six feet by five feet beveled edged mirrors; wall mounted and free standing ballet bars, phonograph, secretary desk, executive desk, costumes, records, piano, street clothing, hats, props, hardware and many other items.

Teen Party's Over In Wisconsin Bars

by GLORIA DAVIS

Despite concerted efforts by the Wisconsin liquor lobbyists and a 5,000-people demonstration (tavern owners, bar employees and teens) staged in front of the Capitol when the special session of the state legislature opened on May 21, Wisconsin will have a legal drinking age of 21 years old starting Sept. 1.

Gov. Anthony Earl, who was against the age raise until a short time ago, is expected to sign the bill into law by June 7.

After a bill authored by a special committee calling for 19 and 20 year olds to be allowed to drink beer was turned down by legislators, the state assembly passed a bill that included a 19 and 20 year old grandfather clause that allows those that are that age before Sept. 1 to keep their drinking privileges.

The bill also calls for stronger drinking driving penalties, including making it more difficult for those convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol to get an occupation permit.

The bill passed the state assembly by a narrow margin late on May 28 and as was expected, slid easily through the state senate the next day.

Although the admonition by the members of the tavern league that teens will not drink less but just as much, only in more dangerous and unsupervised circumstances, does not agree with statistics from the four states surrounding Wisconsin, that show definite drops in teen drinking and driving accidents since the 21-year-old raise took place in those states.

Bar owners and employees that are now crying the blues because of the lost revenue, might look to the 40 other states that have complied with federal requests to legalize 21 year olds to find out what the liquor industry in those states did to get new revenues.

The blackmarketing of fake ID's and drivers licenses is expected to spring up in Wisconsin but fake documents can be spotted when checked carefully.

Proponents of the approved bill feel that it will be harder for 18 and 19 year olds to pass for 21, with or without fake identification, than it was for 16 and 17-year-olds to pass for legalized 18 of a few years ago when the border-hopping deaths were at their height.

Wisconsin also intends to strengthen checks on package liquor stores to help prevent drinking by under age youths in cars and at home parties.

Stronger enforcement of Wisconsin's new stricter laws and heavier penalties is expected to help cure violation temptations.

Illinois legislators preempted Wisconsin's age raise (just in case) by passing a bill that would hold out-of-state tavern owners responsible for personal injuries or property damage done by underage Illinois teens drinking in Wisconsin.

The Illinois Senate also unanimously passed a bill sponsored by Sen. David Barkhausen (R-Lake Bluff), amending Illinois' dram shop law making even out-of-state persons contributing to the intoxication of a person who later causes injury or property damage in Illinois answerable to the Illinois court system.

Sherman Heads Program

Doug Sherman, geology instructor at the College of Lake County, chair of the Honors Program Committee, has announced that courses being readied for the start of the program include Environmental Biology (a laboratory class), English 121, Psychology 121 and Math 121 and Calculus.

A minimum of 18 semester hours of honors coursework will be completed over four semesters and the college transcript will indicate the grade earned was for honors studies.

The seven-person committee has been meeting to establish the program's components and criteria for admission.

The CLC Honors Program is scheduled to begin with the fall semester of 1987. Sherman said, "The CLC Honors Program is very comprehensive."

"The most important factor will be reaching the right students. The program is a giant step in attracting additional student enrollment," Sherman explained.

Currently the committee is overseeing preparation of a guide program for use in county high schools to explain details of the program.

The program was designed with 50 renewable tuition scholarships planned for the fall semester of 1987, according to Sherman. Students interested in more details about the program may contact Doug Sherman at (312) 223-6601.

BUYING A HOME SATELLITE DISH IS COSTLIER THAN YOU THINK.

Before you spend your hard earned money on a satellite receive dish you should learn the facts.

This year popular premium services like HBO and Cinemax will begin scrambling their signals with highly sophisticated electronic encryption devices.

And this new technique won't be limited to just premium services. Many basic cable channels like ESPN, MTV and CNN have announced their intentions to scramble signals.

What does this mean for satellite dish owners?

In addition to paying several thousand dollars for the purchase and installation of a receive dish, it will be necessary to spend hundreds of dollars on descrambling equipment plus pay monthly service fees for each channel received.

Make your decision based on the facts.

Airport Picture Brightens

A long-standing "back burner" project—development of a regional airport to serve Lakeland general aviation needs—has been vaulted to the "front burner" with the release of a federal grant to finance a study on expanding Campbell Airport.

The Federal Aviation Administration allocated $67,500 for a design study, airport requirements, airport master plan, financial plan, environmental assessment, reviews, meetings and reports.

Campbell, located south of Round Lake Park and Grayslake, basically is a center for recreational flying, although commercial useage has been growing. It is Campbell's potential for commercial aviation development that has caught the fancy of Mayor George Scherer of Round Lake Park. He has been waging virtually a one-man campaign to get Campbell recognized by the federal government.

Mayor Scherer called qualification for the study grant a big hurdle. Despite the fact that application for the Campbell grant was filed more than two years ago, ground work was pursued to the extent that the study today is more than 75 percent complete. The study is being conducted by Burke & Associates of Park Ridge, an airport planning firm that is probably better acquainted with Lake County aviation needs than any consultant in the field.

Since Mayor Scherer sparked interest in Campbell Airport several years ago its possible development has been received enthusiastically by flying interests. Officials of Baxter Laboratories are monitoring Campbell's progress with an eye toward basing part of its corporate fleet there. Commercial pilots view utilization of Campbell as a "pressure valve" for Waukegan Regional Airport which is growing rapidly. From an overall air traffic view, an expanded Campbell with additional facilities would be just what the doctor ordered.

Mayor Scherer is taking an unselfish view about Campbell Airport. We tend to agree with him that logically the facility should be developed by a broader based entity since in its projected form it will serve flying needs of central and west Lake County and even the growing east McHenry County. The Round Lake Park mayor, however, is to be commended for his go-it-alone determination. Scherer is convinced that Campbell Airport is economically feasible as a municipal airport. Maybe the bandwagon has to get a little farther down the road before others are ready to hop on it.

A Good Bet

All the talk about Arlington Park Racetrack moving to Lake County has local residents excited. Frankly, it has been a puzzle to us why sports entrepreneurs did not recognize the potential of Lake County long ago.

Located about halfway between Chicago and Milwaukee, Lake County offers not only a huge potential market, but also easy access via Interstate 94. People who come to Lake County to visit a sporting event can take advantage of the abundant natural resources and make a weekend of it. Lake County offers camping, fishing, boating, shopping, and a major theme park, just to name a few of the many things to do.

One question we have, though, is if Arlington does finally settle here, will it still be called Arlington or will it become the Old Mill Creek Racetrack? Instead of the Arlington Million, will we have the Old Mill Million? Or perhaps just the Old Million?

Whatever finally happens, we think that it is just a matter of time before sports moguls discover that locating in Lake County is a good bet.

Elderly Needs

Money spent on programs for older Illinoisans over the last decade literally has exploded. Three years after it was established in 1973, the fiscal 1976 budget for the Dept. of Aging was $13.7 million. By fiscal 1985 expenditures from appropriated funds hit $98.3 million, or 7.2 times the budget a decade earlier.

A study by the office of Comptroller Roland W. Burris showed that in fiscal 1976, the Dept. on Aging received just $600,000 in grants from the state's general revenue fund; by fiscal 1985 that total hit $53.9 million. For the same period, federal grants increased from $11.9 million to $40.1 million.

Without a doubt, Illinois is aware of its responsibilities to senior citizens. It's a matter of viewpoint, however, whether the current level of expenditures is enough. There is opinion expressed in a number of quarters that the expenditures are insufficient!

Spending for senior citizens is expected to continue as the elderly constitute a larger proportion of the population. In 1970, seniors made up 9.8 percent of the state's population. By 1980, seniors made up 11 percent. By 1999, seniors are expected to account for 12.6 percent of Illinois' population.

Illinois' increase in senior citizen population is expected to be less than the nation as a whole. Therefore, our share of federal funds is expected to dwindle, thus putting more pressure on officialdom for a greater share of state income for the elderly. The picture of the future in this regard isn't pretty, even with a state budget of $20 billion in the making.

Parent Paper Younger Than 'Offspring'

by BILL SCHROEDER

Lakeland Publishers Inc., parent of this newspaper and associated Lakeland Newspapers, is a rank youngster compared to the ages of some of the newspapers it publishes. A newspaper is the only creature we know of where the parent can be younger than the child.

The Antioch News-Reporter is observing its 100th year of publication this summer. Its corporate parent is 30 years old.

The News-Reporter, one of the oldest newspapers in northeastern Illinois, predates several other venerable publications in the Lakeland group. The Wauconda Leader was founded in 1888 so its centennial year is just around the corner. The Grayslake Times' first issue was published in 1900.

It has always been a point of interest to this observer that at the turn of the century these three newspapers along with the Barrington Courier covered the entire central and west part of Lake County, the last part of the county to be settled. As the area became more populated, other newspapers were founded to establish the identity of newer communities and report the news. So while still thriving, the geographic responsibility of the oldtimers' is narrower. Chalk up another anomaly for suburban newspapers: smaller is bigger.

We're aware of one other Illinois newspaper making the century mark this year, the Des Plaines Suburban Times.

WISE DECISION—Lake County State's Atty. Fred Foreman is enjoying life a lot more these days as he watches his new home rise in a wooded area off Washington St. rather than dash madly about Illinois as an 11th hour fill-in candidate for attorney general.

Builders broke ground a few days after Foreman decided that he would complete his term as state's attorney before seeking a higher office. No doubt about it, Foreman is committed to a career in politics and he doesn't intend to grow old as state's attorney. For a few days in mid-May, he was in the state spotlight. Fred got a taste of life in the fast lane—courting by political bigwigs, front page and 10 o'clock news attention from the press and the knowledge that "you're wanted," which is heady stuff for everyone in public office.

Even though the nomination was Foreman's for the taking, Republican leaders were offering the statewide opportunity pretty much on a "here's the boat, you find the oars" basis. Meaning money. Foreman would have had campaign financing problems from day one facing an opponent with a war chest and resources big enough to finance half the Democratic ticket (Alan Dixon's got the other half). Close advisers gave him good advice and Foreman made a wise decision to stay in Lake County a few more years.

UNHAPPY—Gene Morris, founder and organizer of the Citizens Mobile Eye in West Miltimore, can't help but feel put upon by circumstances, "even though I always support law and order."

What has Morris in a quandry is the fact that his daughter, 21, lost her automobile insurance as the result of being involved in a collision with another car on a rain-swept and foggy highway in which the other driver got off with wrist slap justice. Morris' daughter was not ticketed and was called to testify against the other driver.

"We had reason to believe the other driver was drinking, but nothing came of that. He got off easy and my daughter lost her insurance. I don't think it's fair and I'm the guy who's always working to help the police and see that justice is done," Morris opined.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—Jill is getting ready to enter the every day working world now that she's a bona fide college graduate. Like most of the grads, she expressed more relief than jubilation. There is so much pressure in college these days that the actual presentation of a sheepskin is anti-climactic.

Retired Celebrity Makes Home At Leisure Village

by GORDON CRANDALL

As Jerry Golden stood in the Leisure Village auditorium speaking on the merits of the village using Wisconsin Power and Light utilities, a friend whispered to me, "Say this fellow has the voice and presence of a pro announcer."

How right my friend was. The robust looking gentleman, whose resonant voice had everyone's attention that day, has a history of professional radio and television announcing. For 35 years Jerry Golden, of St. Tropez Ct. worked at his profession, which included employment by four major Chicago stations.

This may come as a surprise to some village residents, since the Goldenes have kept a rather low profile since they moved here in 1983. Jerry is a modest, unassuming person who has confided his glamorous career only to this inquiring reporter.

Born in 1923, Jerry grew up in a family of five boys on the west side of Chicago. He graduated from Austin High School and later attended the University of Michigan, majoring in speech and drama. He graduated from Columbia College in Chicago, a school that specializes in preparatory broadcasting courses for radio and television.

World War II delayed Jerry's broadcasting debut. He served with the U.S. 2nd Marine Corps Division as a PFC in field artillery. His unit won a Presidential Citation for bravery under fire at the bloody battle of Tarawa in the Pacific in 1943.

Jerry returned to the U.S. in 1944 to attend Officers' Candidate School. But before he could earn a lieutenant's rank, the war ended.

At age 23, Jerry got his first job as a staff radio announcer for WHBY in Appleton, Wis. He also worked there as a DJ from 1946-49.

It was there that Jerry met his "girl next door," as he put it. Dorothy Zeegers, an Appleton High School student who was a part-time fashion news reporter for WHBY, would broadcast fashion news directly from Pranges Department Store. Jerry met her when he conducted the remote pickup for his station. It was love at first broadcast. They were married after Dorothy graduated from high school.

Six months later Jerry became program director of WLIP Radio in Kenosha. He also did on-the street interviews with personalities such as Republican Senators Alexander Wiley and Joseph McCarthy, Democratic Sen. William Proxmire, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Jerry was also sports announcer, interviewing such bowling stars as "Buzz" Fazio, Steve Nagy, and Carmen Salvino. Jerry will never forget one major wrestling match in Kenosha. A local promoter had brought Jack Dempsey to referee a match. During the contest, one wrestler took a wild swing at the other, but missed and hit Dempsey in the nose. Dempsey was so angry that he knocked the wrestler out of the ring. Jerry thinks that the great boxer pulled his punch, for the wrestler got back in the ring, shook hands with Dempsey, and the match went on.

Broadcasting dance band remote pickups from local ballrooms was something else Jerry did while at WLIP. He introduced musical numbers and added comments, covering big bands like Gene Krupa, Harry James and Benny Goodman.

Jerry is especially proud of one enterprise he initiated during his tenure at WLIP. He began a March of Dimes for polio auction on the air waves. This went on for seven years, during which they raised over $100,000. He later helped organize the Wisconsin statewide March of Dimes drive in which about 20 radio stations participated.

In 1957, after eight years at the Kenosha station, Jerry made the "big league" with Radio WBBM, Chicago. He was hired as staff announcer and did a lot of what the trade calls "voice-overs." He introduced such well-known newscasters as Fahey Flynn, John Harrington and John Calloway.

Jerry's first TV announcing job on WBBM/CBS, Channel 2, was with a Sunday morning show, "The Lord's Staff."

In 1959 Jerry accepted an offer from WLS Radio for his own morning show. He commented mainly on the big bands of the swing era, plus easy listening music.

Jerry then became a news announcer during a period when lots of big new events were occurring—political conventions, the 1968 riots, and the burning of the West Side of Chicago after Dr. King's assassination. According to Jerry, WLS had the highest rated noon news program in the midwest.

Jerry had the dubious distinction of making the first announcement in the entire midwest of President Kennedy's assassination in 1963.

On the lighter side, Jerry recalls human interest interviews of actors Jimmy Durante, Steve Allen, former Mayor Richard J. Daley, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

After 10 years with WLS, Jerry opted for a higher salary by shifting to WMAQ/NBC. There he did voice-over commercials, introduced Floyd Kalber's 10 p.m. newscast, and announced the late movie each evening.

From 1970-81 Jerry moved up to WGN Radio and TV, Channel 9, where he worked with such personalities as Wally Phillips, Bob Collins and Carl Grayson.

Jerry particularly enjoyed serving as summer replacement (1971-73) for the mellifluous voice of Franklin MacCormick on WGN Radio's all-night "Meister Brau Showcase," which featured an "easy listening" format.

Another popular show he was connected with was "Extension 720," with Milt Rosenberg. Besides doing commercials, Jerry interviewed famous persons in all walks of life.

In 1981, Jerry retired from WGN, sold his house in 1983, and moved to California. Like so many mid-westerners, he could not adapt to the "laid-back" lifestyle, so after only six months, he moved back here. He heard about Leisure Village, and after seeing it, decided this was the place for he and Dorothy. Jerry says it's the "best move we ever made."

The Goldenes have been traveling almost constantly—48 states, plus Hawaii twice. They drive to the southwest almost every winter.

They raised four children. The oldest, Jackie, is 37 and lives in Schaumburg. Jerry Jr. is 35 and makes his home in Albuquerque, N.M. Cindy, 32, lives in and works for the City of DesPlaines. Sandy, 27, also lives in DesPlaines. And there are nine grandchildren for the Goldenes to brag about.

Finally, Jerry told me a touching, poignant story, that one of his colleagues, Paul Harvey, would have relished. It seems that his father, Thomas, who came from Ireland, was an avid White Sox baseball fan. He seldom missed a game. Near the end of 1959—the year the Sox won the pennant, remember?—Jerry put his father on WGN Radio and the old man described the whole game.

So, even though the Sox later lost the World Series to the Dodgers, they were considered strong contenders for the race in 1960. Well, Jerry's Uncle Bob had bought a block of four tickets for the first few games at Comiskey Park in the event the Sox won, and was to give them to the old man. Jerry's father, however, died rather suddenly before the pennant race was decided.

At the time of the wake, Uncle Bob took the four tickets and put them into the casket, saying, "These are for you, Tom, take them to heaven," a nice, final gesture, Jerry thought.

What Type Of Fish Is Best For You?

by CHAILENE WHITNEY

There are four groups of fish.

The livebearers have their young born alive much like a mammal.

Egg layers lay eggs, which hatch.

Bubble nest builders are fish that make a bubble nest with their mouths at the water's surface. There the male helps the female release the eggs and get them into the bubble nest. The male then cares for the eggs.

Cichlids are larger fish. They are also quarrelsome. It is best to keep them singly or in breeding pairs. They become tame enough for the owner to hand feed them.

There are saltwater fish and freshwater fish. Few people attempt to keep saltwater fish because it is difficult to keep the chemical balance just right.

Many people like to have goldfish because they are colorful and can be purchased for a small price.

Goldfish are egg layers, but must be full breeding size and need a pond for the right conditions.

Goldfish should be kept in a filtered tank that is large enough for the number and size of fish that will live there.

Often owners put a couple of goldfish in a bowl that is too small for them. Goldfish lose needed air from oils of their bodies that get into the water. Therefore you may notice that the bowl is dirty within a couple of days and you'll see the fish trying to gasp air from the surface. The water may even look cloudy.

Changing the water often may not be much better. The new water should be aged for three or four days and the same room temperature.

Pet-Wise

The fish goes through some degree of shock during a change and to some degree, cells from the scales are rubbed off during handling.

Guppies are livebearers. They come in fancy tails and lots of colors, ranging from blues to greens, to reds. A common guppy may not be as fancy, but just as colorful and plentiful. They are often called rainbow fish.

Guppies are easy to raise and very hardy. In one month a pair becomes twenty and in three months, twenty become a hundred. Bowls can be used as long as they aren't overcrowded, but a fish tank would be easier for them and you.

The adult guppies will eat the babies unless they are separated, or unless the babies have lots of plants in which to hide.

There are also other livebearers that can be mixed in a community tank. It does make a lovely display with a tank full of black mollies, redwings, gold swordfish, platies, etc. They all add color to your tank and they all get along.

I had raised all types of fish and had tanks all over the house for nearly 20 years. The day came when I wanted just one fish that had color and would do well in just a bowl.

With all my experience with different types of fish, I decided on a male betta. The male has more color and larger fins than the female. It is a bubble nest builder, and has double lungs to breathe in the water or gulp air from the surface. It is a very hardy fish, and if well cared for, may live three years or more.

A young healthy fish, full of pep and brightly colored, is your best choice. A betta will have a dull color when frightened or ill. There are many "old" bettas for sale too. The biggest one may not be the best choice.

Live food is nature's best food, but frozen foods are nearly as good. If you have decided that flake foods are easier for you, make sure it is the best you can get for your breed of fish. Don't overfeed.

There are many types of beautiful tropical fish. You may wish to check out some books at the library and learn about them. Pet shops usually have many types on display.

Cooking With Collards

Collards belong to a group of greens that can be used interchangeably. They include beet tops, cabbage sprouts, dandelions, kale, mustard greens, Swiss chard and turnip tops.

I am not a fan of greens, but I realize that they contain essential vitamins and minerals, and are low in calories. While I draw the line at dandelions, I find collards to my liking on occasion.

That occasion usually is when one of my wife's sewing buddies drops by the house. She loves to cook collards. Sometimes she uses sausage, other times ham. Mostly, however, she goes with salt pork.

Collard Greens

1 pound salt pork, cut up
1 large bunch collard greens, rinsed well
Crushed red pepper and salt to taste
Boil salt pork in water five minutes, drain and set aside. Soak greens in water in large pot for one hour and parboil; drain and add some fresh water. Add salt pork and red pepper, cover and cook on medium heat one hour. Cover and cook 30 minutes to one hour until desired doneness. Serves six to eight.

Kale and Potatoes

6 slices bacon
1 1/2 pounds kale, rinsed well

2 cups diced raw potatoes
1/4 cup water
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/8 teaspoon black pepper

Pilot Light GREG MELIKOV

Cook bacon in large pot until crisp and drain on paper toweling. Leave a little bacon drippings in pot. Add rest of ingredients; cover and cook on medium heat until desired doneness, at least 20 minutes. Top each serving with a slice of bacon. Serves six.

Hispanic Families

In 1985, about 905,000 Hispanic families were maintained by women. More than half of these families had incomes in 1984 which placed them below the U.S. poverty level, compared with 35 percent of all families maintained by women, according to "Women of Hispanic Origin in the United States Labor Force," a publication of the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Dept. of Labor.

Antioch Edges Panthers

When it comes to success in three sports, Antioch's Sequoia are tops among Lakeland area teams.

For the first time, Lakeland has comprised a power ratings system based on football, boys' basketball and baseball standings.

Teams were awarded points based on conference standings and playoff competition. A team with a poor conference record could thus make up points for advancing far in the state playoffs.

North Suburban Conference member Antioch garnered 14 points in football, 13 in basketball and 14 in baseball for its total of 31.

Round Lake, co-champs in football in the Northwest Suburban Conference and champions in baseball, finished with 27 points. The Panthers earned nine points in all three sports.

Warren, thanks to a NSC championship and two post-season wins in basketball, finished with 23 points.

Carmel, which advanced to the Sweet Sixteen in basketball for the second straight year, was next with 19 points.

Grant, second-place finishers in the NWSC baseball race, had 18 points.

Grayslake and Johnsburg rounded out the teams finishing in double figures with 12 and 11 points.

By conference, Round Lake finished on top of the NWSC race, edging Marengo's 26 points. Marian Central had 19. Grant was next. Johnsburg edged Wauconda to stay out of the cellar 11-9.

Antioch tipped Libertyville by two points to win the NSC race. Warren was third, followed by Stevenson, Niles North, Lake Forest and Mundelein.

First Permit Goes For Cops And Bobbers Tourney

The Chain O' Lakes - Fox River Waterway Management Agency sold special event permit number one for the second annual Cops and Bobbers Fishing Tournament which will be held on the Chain O' Lakes on Wednesday, June 4. The permit was purchased by Outdoor Notebook, sponsor of the Cops and Bobbers outing.

Cops and Bobbers is a tournament for law enforcement officers who represent various state, county, and local police departments in northern Illinois.

"It is not only a pleasure to make this contribution for the police officers fishing in the tournament, but also an honor to help the Chain O' Lakes waterway project," said Don Dziedina, contributing editor for Outdoor Notebook, at the presentation of the first special event permit.

Any law enforcement officer who wishes to participate in the tournament should contact Jack Byrnes at (312) 359-5849 or Joe Bernyista at (312) 935-1079.

The Lesson Tee

This week I want to conclude the adjustments for hillside lies by covering the uphill lie. You're probably familiar enough with the pulled shot and the feeling of imbalance so common with these uphill lies. Just the opposite of last week's column is true here as to loft, the trajectory of the ball will be slightly higher than from a level lie. 1) Take two clubs greater than for the same distance on level ground and choke down slightly. 2) Play the ball back in your stance by one or two inches. 3) Move hips three to four inches forward and shift more weight to the left foot. 4) Keep upper body at 90 degree angle to the slope of the incline even when this looks or feels extreme to you. In both cases, either downhill or uphill, picture turning the incline into a level lie by altering your body position.

Carmel 9 Starts Fast, Finishes Season Slow

When this baseball season began, Carmel coach Joe Pudlo was pleased that his squad had won six straight games.

But, the coach also knew that there were some underlying weaknesses that could crop up at any time.

And it was those weaknesses—poor defense at critical times and inconsistent hitting that turned a promising start to a disappointing finish.

"We were very inconsistent, especially defensively. Our defense hurt us a lot," Pudlo said.

The Corsairs finished the season at 12-16, winning just two of 14 games in the tough East Suburban Catholic Conference. Carmel did win its first regional game, a 4-3 nine-inning game over Zion-Benton.

Pudlo said that when the ESCC season started, Carmel's offense went sour against the league's top pitchers.

"In the non-conference season, we weren't always facing their top pitcher. Hopefully we learned that the conference season is a little different ballgame," the second-year mentor said.

Carmel picked Steve Bruns as its Most Valuable Player.

Bob Langer led the offense with a .426 batting average.

Scott Stahoviak, a sophomore, was 4-3 with a 2.76 earned-run-average while George Hickey was 4-5 and had a 2.45 ERA.

Returning for Carmel next year are juniors Ken Self and Jerry Maloney, Dan Halverson, Greg Gabry and Steve Hill.

Carmel's freshmen finished 13-10, the sophomores 11-15.

This camp offers women of all ages and lifestyles a week of freedom from cooking, car pools, job pressures and life's many demands.

WOW is held at Camp Duncan YMCA, which is located on Hwy. 12, four miles south of Fox Lake. The camp is rustic with dormitory style sleeping arrangements in gas heated cabins. Campers eat their low-cal nutritious meals in a large lodge that overlooks a lovely lake.

"How much or how little is all up to the individual," says Kathy Ferrigan, the camp director for the past six years. "We want women to spend their time in camp doing whatever they please. That might be reading a book under a shade tree, or taking a walk in the woods, or sampling everything that is offered. The choice will be completely theirs."

One of the best things campers enjoy about camp is meeting women of all ages and from all walks of life. The sharing, the warmth, the laughs, the total experience that takes place is what make camp, fitness plus...

Cost for WOW is $145 for members and $155 for non-members. Call (312) 546-6116 for an application.

Cars To Be In Volo Auction

The Greater Chicago Collector Car Auction to be presented by ITT Kruse International and Greg and Bill Grams of the Volo Auto Museum, on Saturday, June 21, at the museum, will feature scores of magnificent autos including many celebrity autos.

Some 150 prime offerings are expected as the entries continue to pour into the auction registration system, says Greg Grams, co-host of the auction and director of the Volo Auto Museum and Sports Car Store.

The sleekly elegant, white, 1955 Rolls Bentley, used by Universal Pictures in the hilarious movie, "Arthur", is one of the celebrity cars.

The body is custom aluminum coach work done by James Young. It is just one of 27 built and it has power windows. 1956 was the first year Rolls Royce had power windows.

The world-famous Chicago Bear's Mike Ditka has entered his own 1965 Packard. It is a four-door, maroon and silver, V8 powered Packard with 76,000 miles on the odometer. Ditka bought it seven years ago for $1,200 and resold it.

Television star, Jackie

Gleason, is believed to be one of the past owners of a 1952 Rolls Royce Silver Shadow, long wheel base formal Sedan, with only 28,000 miles on it. This car will be in the auction event.

Consignees and buyer both are assured full participation protection through the high standards set by ITT Kruse and Volo. Clear title must be submitted at the time of registration and all identification numbers must match those on the vehicle.

For information and registration, contact Greg Grams at (312) 385-9644 or write Volo Auto Museum, 27640 West Hwy. 124, Volo, Ill. 60089, open daily except Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A special preview will be held on Friday, June 20, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., the day before the auction. Auction day admission for adults is $5 and $3 for children 12 and under. Bidders must pay a $20 fee and register in advance.

Signing Autographs

Bear football offensive lineman Stefan Humphries took time out from a busy training schedule to sign autographs at the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA) booth at the annual Lakehurst Health Fair. Residents of Bridge House, NICASA's halfway house for recovering alcoholics and drug abusers, sponsored and presented this exhibit. In addition to the autograph session, there was educational information and answers to questions on substance abuse and chemical dependency. Mari Gonyan, right, was one of the Bridge House coordinators for the event.

The conventional air conditioner has a very important part missing.

If we put a picture in the outline above and the mechanical engineers called it a reversing valve, would probably yawn.

A few pounds of iron and steel containing some precision components isn't everybody's idea of excitement. But what that little reversing valve does for the air conditioner is the biggest thing to happen to it since it was invented eighty years ago.

It turns an expensive investment that's only good a few months a year into a year-round innovation in human comfort.

The electric heat pump. Don't let the name mislead you. In the summer, the valve turns it into a conventional central air conditioner. Just a flick of a switch on your wall thermostat activates it, and starts the cooling cycle. Refrigerant absorbs the heat inside your house and a compressor moves it outside. Over and over and over.

Unlike the conventional kind, however, that's only the half of it. Because unlike the conventional kind, the heat pump doesn't just sit there like a bump on a pickle when summer's over.

Come fall, another flick and that little valve shifts it into reverse. And all it's T-shirt weather again, heat from the sun that's always in the air outside is pulled inside to keep you toasty. For less bread than you'd expect.

That's because the heat pump happens to be one of the most efficient heating devices in the world. So much so that it actually gives you more heating BTUs than you pay for. At least seventy-five percent more, and that's a fact.

No other air conditioner can make that promise.

For a few more facts about this marvelous machine, just write to: Heat Pump, Box 767, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

The Heat Pump.
It heats. It cools. It saves.

Travel

Wisconsin Beckons Illinois' Residents

It's fair to say that Wisconsin is a favorite state for most northern Illinois travelers. Perhaps, it's equally accurate to quote Wisconsinites who say, Illinois travelers are their favorite visitors...by virtue of numbers, frequency...and dollars.

With tourism as Wisconsin's number two employer and income producer, there is a marked concentration on reaching greater Chicagoland with its millions of travelers. We leave shortly for several days of comprehensive Wisconsin touring, so our updates will be current.

Just over Wisconsin's southern border, in Walworth County, the city of Lake Geneva is bubbling with excitement as it prepares for its centennial celebration during the week June 14-20. A hundred years of progress in this scenic section has made it one of the midwest's finest recreational areas, offering resorts and motels, restaurants, camping and hiking, boating and fishing to suit most family requirements and personal pleasures.

Centennial week will launch with a 2 p.m. Saturday parade, marshaled by Armen G. Avedisian, who is also chairman of the National Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island Commission...he's the one who replaced Chrysler's Lee Iacocca.

A full week of activities will charm visitors and residents with street and ballroom dancing, heritage home tours, period costumes, ice cream socials, concerts, boat rides, classic automobile and boat displays, and varied memorabilia from 100 years of growth.

Details are available by writing Walworth County Tourism, Box 1007, Elkhorn, Wis., 53121. For specifics, call the Lake Geneva Chamber of Commerce, toll free, 1-800-345-1020.

Farther north, the Wisconsin Dells has blossomed into readiness for a million summer visitors. Their popular scenic splendor and excitement changes in some respects each year, but nature's beauty is always there to be seen and enjoyed...for some it's the first time, while frequent visitors find it a never tiring panorama.

Whether an initial or repeat visitor, a new service is available this year, called Dells Literature Hotline. It's for those considering a visit. Their toll free number, 1-800-22-DELLS, is a convenient way to request a free, full-color, 1986 Travel and Attraction guide.

It contains 60 pages of Dells details covering attractions, motels, campgrounds, food sources, a calendar of events and maps. Each season, visitor numbers grow and 75 percent are from out of state. This is one reason for Dells ability to house up to 16,000 guests in motels. Then add sites for 5,300 campers conveniently in and near activities, plus an additional 300 new motel rooms being offered this season.

Upper and lower Dells boat trips are the most popular visitor attraction. At present, all activities are underway and a full program of amusements and pleasures for families is just waiting to be enjoyed.

Europe's Influence Found In A Summer In Virginia

An Eiffel Tower, A Scottish festival, the 17th-century skill of glass-blowing and some of the world's oldest mountains - these are just a few of the European experiences travelers can enjoy in Virginia this summer.

The culture of the Old World, permanently enshrined in Virginia history, flourishes in the state's traditions and sites, special events and recreational opportunities.

Beginning with the first permanent English settlement in America at Jamestown in 1607, Virginia's melting pot of nationalities has included the Scots, French, Germans, Africans, Poles, Lithuanians and Slavs - all of whom left their imprint on the state's rich heritage. Today, visitors to Virginia enjoy this colorful diversity in energetic Scottish games, English fox hunts, German antique car shows and much-loved mountain crafts and mountain music festivals, which harken back to pioneering days.

From northern Virginia, outside the nation's capital at Washington, D.C., a circular itinerary can be designed around Virginia's Old World charms. Weekend excursions can also be made to these locations.

A good starting point from northern Virginia is the English countryside estate of Mount Vernon, in Fairfax County, home of the nation's first president, George Washington. Washington's mentor, Lord Fairfax, brought the British sport of fox hunting to the area. The sport still flourishes in Virginia's hunt country during the spring and fall seasons each year.

The nearby city of Alexandria was founded by Scottish merchants in 1749. Today, Alexandria's restored historic "Old Town" takes visitors back to the heyday of this leading colonial seaport through its Scottish games each July.

Three hours' drive from the nation's capital is the historic triangle of Jamestown, Williamsburg and Yorktown. An hour's drive east from this triangle brings visitors to the Norfolk-Hampton-Virginia Beach area, one of the premier recreational destinations along the Atlantic Coast but also known for its outstanding historic attractions dating back to the Kecoughtan Indians who were here when the English arrived in the 17th century.

Still one more hour's drive takes travelers across the Chesapeake Bay via the world's longest bridge-tunnel complex to the eastern shore and Assateague Island, where wild ponies are descended from the horses aboard a 16th century Spanish galleon that wrecked off the coast.

Colonial Williamsburg, voted by U.S. travel writers as one of the foremost vacation destinations in America, is the most extensive 18th century village in the United States.

Just a few minutes away from Yorktown, travelers view the scene of the 1781 victory of the American revolution.

Close to Yorktown is the extensive theme park Busch Gardens, The Old Country, with villages recreating those in England, Italy, France and Germany.

Only five miles from Williamsburg is Jamestown Festival Park, where replicas of the 1607 vessels that brought the first 105 permanent English settlers to America are anchored.

Glassmaking in America began at Jamestown in 1608, in a small thatched-roofed building - an art first practiced by Germans and still demonstrated today on Jamestown Island at Colonial National Historical Park.

An hour's drive from Williamsburg, the state capital of Richmond promises sparkling nightlife, delicious dining and a full complement of historic sites, art galleries and shopping.

A Southern Folk Art Show will be held at the city's Valentine Museum, June 14-Aug. 30, featuring "fraktur" and other work of German and Swiss immigrant artists.

For further information and a free 1986 calendar of events, contact the Virginia Division of Tourism, 202 N. Ninth St., Suite 500, Richmond, Va. 23219 or phone (804) 786-4484.

"Sometimes stocks, bonds and mutual funds are your best investments..."

Steven Hardin, INVEST Registered Representative at Skokie Federal, helps customers round out their savings portfolio.

"No one can argue that CDs from a federally insured financial institution should be the foundation of any savings portfolio. But once you've built that foundation, it may be worthwhile to look for alternative investments with higher growth and income potential. Sometimes stocks, bonds and mutual funds are your best investments. But how do you know? Where can you go to invest in them?"

"Most people are surprised when I tell them they can purchase stocks, bonds or mutual funds through INVEST right here at Skokie Federal. Unlike discount brokers, at INVEST, we take the time to help you understand each investment opportunity so you can better build your investment portfolio. And you'll appreciate our fees on stocks and bonds which are less than those charged by full-service brokers.

"Through INVEST I've helped many savers round out their investment portfolios and become smarter investors. That makes me proud to be a part of the Skokie Federal team."

BUDGET HEARING ON GENERAL
REVENUE SHARING

Village of Gurnee will hold a Public Hearing at 7:30 p.m. on June 16, 1986 in the Municipal Building, 4573 Grand Avenue, Gurnee, Illinois, 60031, for the purpose of written and oral comment from the public concerning the Proposed Annual Budget for this Fiscal Year 1986-87 and the use of Revenue Sharing Funds as contained in the Proposed Budget, summarized below.

Revenue Sharing (GRS) is a program of general fiscal support from the Government to State and Local Governments with only limited Federal restrictions about how the money should be spent. Decisions on the use of these funds are made at the local level by the government and people closest to local problems. The Revenue Sharing regulations require a hearing on the proposed use of these funds in the overall budget before the budget is adopted each year.

Interested citizens, groups, senior citizens, and organizations representing the interests of senior citizens are encouraged to attend and to submit comments.

Air Force Will Be Tough: Thirtle

Wauconda High School Salutatorian Mike Thirtle will leave July 1 to begin eight weeks of basic training at the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. Actual coursework will start in mid-August.

Although he's heard "horror stories" about the initial hazing process, which places him in the category of a "doolie," and he knows training will be tough, Thirtle said he is "psyched" to begin the program.

His next break, however, won't be until next Christmas. "Freshman year is supposed to be the toughest," he said. "It (air force) isn't like a regular college. You really have to learn to deal with your problems."

Thirtle, who participated in track, cross country and baseball at Wauconda High School, said he plans to take a wait-and-see approach to his first year before joining an athletic team.

Two Better Than One At Graduation Fete

When parents and relatives attend the eighth grade graduation exercises at Lake Villa Intermediate School on Thursday, June 5, at 7:30 p.m. that might think that they are seeing double as they view the graduates.

But they're not. What they will be seeing is four sets of twins graduating at the same time.

Tammy and Tina Casagrande, William and Thomas Friedle, Jennifer and Julie Good and Michel and Nicole Nerine will all be accepting diplomas and congratulations at commencement.

Having four sets of twins in one class is more than unusual, sometimes it tends to be quite confusing.

Abraham Lincoln Returns For TV

In 1976, during the Republican National Convention, Robert Wilton, then the mayor of Antioch, discovered that in the proper costume he had an uncanny resemblance to President Abraham Lincoln.

He appeared as a delegate to that convention dressed as "Honest Abe" and was picked up by all the tv cameras.

After joining some other area Antioch presidential imitators, (William Seamann as President George Washington and Ken Smouse as President Ulysses S. Grant), at the display of the White House replica at Hawthorn Center, Wilton again found himself on the tube as he and "Mary Todd Lincoln," Jean Frank, Grayslake, appeared on "PM Magazine," on channel 32, at 7 p.m. on May 26 in honor of Memorial Day.

Schedule Bible School

Children in first through eighth grades may participate in a program sponsored by the Antioch Evangelical Free Church entitled, "Climbing God's Way." Offered each day, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. during the week of June 9 through 13, the program will include Bible stories, recreation, crafts, puppet shows, music and refreshments.

The church can arrange transportation for children who need it. Adult volunteers are welcome to participate.

For further information, call (312) 395-4117.

Fire Safety

Antioch Fire Department Inspector Wayne Parthun believes that good safety habits start early. As part of a continuing program, Parthun lectures classes at Antioch High School about fire hazards and how to prevent them.

ROUND LAKE AREA PARK DISTRICT TAX INFORMATION BULLETIN

The Round Lake Area Park District Board of Commissioners wishes their taxpayers to know that the Truth and Taxation Requirements as specified in the adjoining advertisement is not a true and accurate reflection of the true tax levy ordinance for 1987. The tax rate for 1987 will be estimated at a 6.2% increase from 1986 due to the increase in liability insurance and a one-year assessment for Working Cash Fund. This Truth in Taxation Law is a comparison between last year's tax dollars and this year's estimated levy which is not a reliable figure. For example, last year the increase stated in the paper was 11.5% and actually the tax rate decreased 1.0%. The Board of Commissioners feels you should know the truth-in-taxation.

HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) A crossroads lies ahead. Whichever way you choose to go, the important thing is to get moving. Delay gains you nothing. New experiences await you in both directions.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Expect a personal matter to take up much of your time. Wind up important business and social situations to leave yourself free to handle newly pressing demands.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) A romantic suggestion should light up the darker corners of your life at this time. Resist the temptation to play guessing games. Show your suitor how you really feel.

Cancer (June 21-July 20) That tendency to look for problems is threatening your current peace of mind. Remember the old adage: if it's not broken, don't fix it.

Leo (July 21-Aug. 22) Curiosity is good for you big, beautiful cats who will need to scratch beneath the surface of a new friend's cover story before making any social or business commitment.

Virgo (Aug. 22-Sept. 22) Carrying a grudge is a burden that can wear down an important friendship. Seek a reconciliation while you still have time to save the relationship.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Tidy up loose ends while the pressure has eased. Getting minor matters out of the way now allows you to spend more time on major projects later.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Take more time to look over the possibilities at hand or you risk overlooking something that could have proved important to your future.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) A misunderstanding is possible but avoidable. Use diplomacy in handling the situation. Provoking arguments can lead to new problems.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Closing the barn door after the horse has fled isn't the way to keep a relationship stable. Start solving your mutual problems now before it's too late.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Relationships need tender, loving care. It's easy to bruise egos and then before you know it, either she goes or he goes out of your life. Be careful.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Compliments are nice but could be compromising. Exercise caution. Be careful you don't get caught on a hook baited with flattery.
